AUSTRALIA playing with energy

An AudioNetic is an audio point, specially developed for public spaces.

Imagine a walking trail through a city or village, where brief, clear, understandable information offers something extra at interesting locations.

A spoken message that perfectly matches the surroundings and the situation is a powerful means of communication.

You can replace the message and/or music very easily by means of an internal USB stick, which you can install yourself.

There is an AudioNetic for every environment. Do you have your own ideas about the colours, the prints, or even a completely themed construction? Basically, anything is possible!
